

NWCC Student Successes!

Brandon Plotner, Carpenter Apprentice

Plotner, the father of two, lists high wages, benefits, education, experience and work satisfaction among the reasons why he chose this program. “I plan to make this a career. This is my opportunity. I want to run with it.” And from his supervisor: “Brandon is a very hard worker. He’s smart, catches on, never complains. He’s great.”

Shawn Pereni, Laborer Apprentice

Physical challenges, camaraderie, outdoors work, and ever-changing construction sites add up to job satisfaction for Shawn Pereni.

“He learns everything he possibly can about the industry, even if it doesn’t appear to be directly related to his job and he’s eager to pitch in and help.” - NWCC Instructor Sue Wilson.

Jon Watson, Carpenter Apprentice

“I’ve had nothing but good reports on his performance and work ethic.” Jon is a hard worker who shows up on time, follows directions well, and is a steady worker.” - Jon’s supervisor.

Lawrence Nath, Carpenter Apprentice

“Through this apprenticeship program I am getting a better concept of how things work, versus someone who just reads a textbook and doesn’t work in the field.”

Nicky Rustigan, Heavy Equipment Operator Apprentice

“I always thought it was neat to be in construction—but I really admired the people that actually built the highways.”

Nicky graduated third in her class!
